THE GUARD WAS THERE

And Made It Hot for The Intruder Taking Coal.

DUEL IN THE DARK.

Jno. Bell, Col. was Shot at The American Snuff Company's Plant.

John Bell, a negro man living on the Clarksville pike, was shot at the American Snuff Co's plant yesterday morning at five o'clock while taking coal belonging to the Snuff Company. The guard Gano Waters, came upon Bell and ordered him to throw up his hands, not knowing what he was doing in the darkness. The negro threw up his hands but began firing at Waters with a 22 Smith & Wesson pistol, after the second shot Waters returned the fire with his shotgun. Bell fired twice more Waters also emptying both barrels. Bell was hit, but was able to get home, not far away. Waters escaped with a pistol ball through one leg of his trousers. The coal was in a pile the Snuff Company had bought from a wrecked car a few days before, and was lying on the ground by the Belt Line track. Bell arrived at his home and telephoned for a colored doctor who found that he had sustained serious but not dangerous wounds. His left wrist was broken in two places and four shot grazed his stomach, making flesh wounds. One shot also grazed his back. The wrist wound is the only one that is serious. Bell is about 45 years old and has a wife and 13 children. Waters' had one barrel loaded with buck shot and the other with shot a size smaller.

East Indian Horror.

It is said that probably 1,500 lives were lost in the tidal wave which devastated some of the Dutch East Indian island on January 11.

J. H. Anderson & Co. and the Planters Hardware Co. in Market.

The latest transactions in real estate of any magnitude are those of J. H. Anderson & Co., and the Planters Hardware Co., negotiations for the former having led to a transfer last Tuesday. The price paid for the vacant Garnett lots and the store room on the north was $15,000. The property was owned by Mr. J. F. Garnett, being part of his originally, three-story block extending to 8th street. The property is in the exact center of the business part of the city and the purchasers are delighted over having secured it. The price they regard as a very reasonable figure. It is really the only piece of property large enough and belonging to one party that would meet their wants. They had been negotiating for it for some time. J. H. Anderson & Co. have long recognized the fact that their business has increased so rapidly since moving "down in the bottom" in 1894 that their present quarters are inadequate, though they now have a floor capacity of 13,480 square feet. The building they are contemplating putting up on their recently acquired property will give them a space of 26,680, or 200 feet over double that of their leased buildings.

They have recently taken a four year lease on their present quarters and are not yet trying to fix on a plan for their new building. The store room embraced in the purchase will at once be razed to the ground and the debris of the fallen buildings removed. Messrs. Anderson & Co. have signified their intention of erecting an immense building, that for beauty and adaptation will eclipse all other buildings of like character in the city. The property that has just come into their hands has a frontage of 70 feet and runs back 192 feet.

The purchase by the Planters Hardware Co. of half of the Ragsdale & Cooper building last Saturday, though the transfer was not made until Monday, is the largest deal in real estate that has been made for years. The consideration was $27,500. The company in obtaining this valuable property secured the only building at all suitable for its needs that was available. Owing to the location and the high price of building material of all kinds and the advance in prices paid to skilled mechanics and laborers, the Hardware Company think they have made a great bargain, and judges of realty are of the same opinion. The company expects soon to make radical changes in the building. The main entrance in the center of the block is embraced in their purchase. The offices on the right of the entrance, now occupied by the Meacham Engineering Co., are to be overhauled and will be used for the offices of the hardware company, as the present office is entirely too circumscribed for convenience and comfort. A new concrete floor is also to be put down in the ware-rooms in the rear of the different departments of the company, besides other improvements. The acquiring of this property by the company assures the business being retained in "the bottom" portion of the city, and the company is being congratulated extensively on its business foresight as well as the evidences of its large and rapidly increasing business.

Another big trade was on last week but did not materialize. An agent for an Eastern syndicate was said to be in the market for the purchase of a piece of property on which to build a large department store. It was not all wind, as other syndicate "schemes" have proven to be in the past twelve months or more Mr. Chas. Ducker was sounded as to what might be his figures on disposing of his residence property, on 9th street opposite the Christian church, but he declined to make a price, as he has no desire to sell. He thinks that 9th street will soon be as good for business as Main, and that he will hold his property until a later day.

Real estate is rapidly on the rise and where it will stop is a question that no one can truly predict.

Killed Three.

Sam Owsley went down again Tuesday to see how Mr. Emmett Caudle's wheat crop is standing the ravages of the thousands of wild geese that are infesting Mr. Caudle's premises. Sam authorizes the statement that he brought back home with him three wild geese as trophies of his hunt.
